

THE ONE OF A KIND SHOW UNVEILS THEIR CHRISTMAS 2008 THEME: THE HOLIDAY WINDOW

Return to the Glamour and Sparkle of the Holidays

TORONTO, ON – This year the One of a Kind Show offers a fresh perspective on a cherished Christmas tradition – the Holiday Window. Not so long ago people made special trips downtown to admire these creative tableaux.

The reasons for the present absence of the Holiday Window are well known: The decline of the customary storefront and the growth of the windowless big-box store; the replacement of family-owned local shops by large international chains.

“We want our visitors to be able to once again experience the wonder and awe that Holiday windows inspire,” says Patti Stewart, the show director. “The windows will come to life as a feature on the show floor.”

Products from One of a Kind Show artisans will be showcased in each themed window – from whimsical children’s toys to delectable handcrafted confectionaries. Whether looking for gift ideas or seasonal decor inspiration, the One of a Kind Show Holiday Window display promises to bring back the magic of the holidays.
